POLITICAL COMMON-SENSE.

Some Sharp Questions by a Boston Republican.

SHALL I, OR SHALL I NOT?

To the Editors of the Boston Daily Advertiser:—

Will you allow a much-bewildered man to attempt to explain the cause of his confusion, and to ask your advice? I have been for years an earnest politician, by which term I mean that I have always voted and worked for principles and men apparently worthy of support. I have been a steady and persistent republican, because in the success of that party alone could I see any prospect of the triumph of right principles. I voted for Fremont and Lincoln and Grant as the standard-bearers of a just cause. I bolted Butler and Talbot, and so on, two years ago, because it seemed possible to separate men from principles, and the men were not to my liking.

But now I am in a quandary. I am solicited to join a Bristow club, and I am trying to see whether, on principle, I should do so or not. I ask first the cause of its existence, having a reluctance to join a club devoted solely to the advancement of one man. I remember that there were Tweed clubs in New York, Flynn clubs in our own city, and I do not exactly like the idea of a Bristow club, at least before he become the nominee of either of the great parties.

I am assured that this movement is in the interest of the Reform, and is a great uprising of the independent voters, and all that, but I find its supporters in this city are the Democratic Herald and the nondescript Globe. I look in vain, Mr. Editor, in your columns for advice, and I have decided to ask you for it, point blank.

It had really seemed to me that the object of a national convention was to select a candidate, that there were several very suitable and fit persons in the republican ranks whose names would be before that convention, and that I might well wait the result of the meeting at Cincinnati before I proclaimed my own choice. Suppose I shout for Bristow as the only pure and upright man left, and sneer at Conkling, abuse Morton and decry Blaine; and then suppose that Bristow is not nominated, what shall I do? I can't retract, I can't repent, and to bolt I am ashamed. This, indeed, gives me pause.

But again, when the Bristow movement began, I said to myself, "Morton I know, and Blaine I know, but who is Bristow?" Not that I knew nothing of him literally, for I presume I know as much as nine-tenths of the gentlemen composing the club, their meetings seeming to be held mainly to enable one or two gentlemen to explain that they personally know the Secretary. But in the sense of knowing how the man would act in office, I repeat I know nothing, and I lack courage to take any more untried men. I remember, Mr. Editor, the late lamented Andrew Johnson. He also was a southerner, and a Union man, and I believe he did good service in his sphere. But he became President and then— To be impartial, I recall that Grant was an able General, but untried in high office; we made him President, and —we shall not renominate him.

Now when any man has been in Congress for years, when he has had to speak and vote on important public questions, we all make up our minds as to what he will do in future affairs. I may not like Cox or Randall, or Banks, or Morton, or Blaine, or Conkling, but I think I know what they will do in regard to matters of finance, or tariffs, or matters of education, or slavery, or State rights. But as to this estimable Bristow, what do I know? He is large in a upright, has a fair Lawyer, he cut off the gas and water at the Boston post-office, he does not seek office, he has not made any mark as a financier, he has prosecuted the whiskey rings, he is taciturn. These are the very heterogeneous bricks from which I am to erect a platform, or, rather, the only material out of which I am to construct the statesman of the future.

And again, Mr. Editor, I should not feel at home in a Bristow club in Boston. I was an anti-slavery man in old times, and I believe that Republicanism means a holding fast to what we gained by the war. But I recognize among the movers a very different element. I see therein the men who opposed Governor Andrew and Charles Sumner throughout, and who would to-day say that they fought to uphold the Constitution, but not to free the slave. Now they have a right to their beliefs and opinions, but if these are different from mine, how can I join hands with them and oppose the renomination of an old anti-slavery man, perhaps?

Besides I feel a half-impression that by trying to divide the preferences of New England I am contributing to a deplorable result. I had supposed that Blaine fairly represented New England republicanism, and if not a saint he was at least, like Judge Russell, "a very sweet sinner." United New England may have a great influence at Cincinnati, but with a divided delegation can she do much?

I admire Reform. I like to spell it with a large R and to talk about it, and resolve that it is essential and all that. But if the time be not ripe for it, and instead of Reform I add in fizzle, with a very small f, shall I be able to look back to my Bristow club-work with complacency? Can I or any two hundred gentlemen of leisure so instantaneously change the American voter throughout the land, so as to make him forego his desire to shout and vote for some man he has heard of, and to persuade him to take up my pet candidate, whom I admire chiefly for being cultured and quiet and gentlemanly? And if I do not, am I not giving a victory to some fierce and terrible democrat who won't be wise and may be dishonest? Can I explain to myself why I pass over Charles Francis Adams, who has a national reputation and is my highest type of a statesman, to take up Bristow, who may prove to be a similar man after he has had the twenty years' public training which he now lacks?

Really, Mr. Editor, as you see, these questions are troublesome. I want Reform. I, perhaps, wish to be a reformer. It would be a sweet thought after election, that I had joined the noble knot of humble citizens, unknown to public fame, who had broken in pieces the corrupt ring of office-holders. How grand to be the little David to slay this Goliath!—But supposing that Goliath not only kills David, but does it without effort, will the immediate friends of the deceased be able to think of his fate with complacency? May they not instead inscribe upon his tomb some such epitaph as this:—

"Here lies a noble ox he busted,—
But from excess of wind he busted."

I believe the liberty party, some elections ago, were able to defeat the whigs, but thereby gave the victory to the democrats. Is that a good example to follow? In short, Mr. Editor, is not this Bristow movement in Massachusetts a misuse of energy and ability at the present time, and an exhibition of an almost feminine impatience and inability to await events. If a bad nomination be made at Cincinnati, there will be enough ready to bolt; but until that convention is held, why should any clique of Bostonians be so anxious to settle the decisions of the party, and if they aspire to do so will they merit or receive any thanks?

NON-QUIVIS.

THE EXTRADITION TREATY.

THE UNITED STATES' POSITION IN THE WINSLOW CASE STRONGLY PRESENTED TO ENGLAND BY SECRETARY FISH.

Secretary Fish on Monday sent the House a copy of a long letter addressed by him to Wickham Hoffman, Secretary of Legation at London, regarding the Winslow case. The reason given by Lord Derby, in his note, for the course of the British Government in refusing to surrender the forger until the assurance is received that he shall not, until he has been restored or had an opportunity of returning to Her Majesty's dominions, be detained or tried in the United States for any offence other than that on which he is extradited—is based, he says, on the course of this country in the Lawrence case. This Government, Mr. Fish says, asked the surrender of Lawrence precisely as it has asked the surrender of all other fugitives, who have been delivered by Great Britain under the treaty of 1842, complying on its part with the requirements of the treaty, and neither by expression or implication entering into any arrangement, but simply requiring the fugitive to be delivered to justice. Mr. Fish declares that is totally different from the understanding of this Government, and opposed to the views recorded in Parliament papers, asserted in diplomatic correspondence and recognized in judicial decisions. He reviews the several extradition treaties and the practices under them at great length. In both Great Britain and the United States, the surrendered fugitives have been tried for other offences than those for which they had been delivered, the rule having been that where the criminal was re-claimed in good faith, and the proceeding was not an excuse or pretence to bring him within the jurisdiction of the court, it was no violation of the treaty or of good faith to proceed against him on other charges than the particular one under which he had been surrendered. The judicial decisions of both rule, and Secretary Fish cites a number of cases. England now raises the question of her right to demand, as a condition of her engagement,

THE POSITION OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT

TO SURRENDER A FUGITIVE CRIMINAL

charged with a series of stupendous frauds, a stipulation not provided in the treaty but asked on the ground of an act of Parliament passed some twenty-eight years after the treaty had been in force. As the country does not recognize any efficacy in a British statute to alter or modify, or to attach new conditions to the executory parts of a previous existing treaty, Mr. Fish does not feel called upon to examine particularly the provisions of that law. Still he does not fail to observe that in this law Great Britain reserves to herself, while making conditions on this country, the right to try fugitives surrendered to her for other crimes than those set down in the requisition for extradition, or proven by the facts on which the extradition is based. This he does not think is wholly reciprocal, and if the United States were disposed to enter into a treaty under the act, it might effect some greater equality of right. Mr. Fish shows that negotiations following the act of 1870 were entered into for enlarging the scope of the treaty, but that this act stood in the way. Since the passage of the act of 1870, Great Britain has obtained from this Government some thirteen warrants of extradition, and instituted a much larger number of proceedings to obtain extradition. In no instance has Great Britain thought it necessary to tender any such stipulation as she now asks from the United States, or to present requests for extradition in any way different from that in which they were presented prior to 1870. The United States in the same time, have instituted numerous proceedings, and has, at this moment, on charges of forgery whose extradition this Government is seeking in the usual manner provided by the treaty. Recurring directly to the case of Winslow, Mr. Fish concludes as follows:

THREE CRIMINALS IN LONDON IN CUSTODY

"As relates to the particular case of the fugitive Winslow, there is not, so far as I am aware, any intention of trying him for any offence other than those on which indictments were transmitted, and for which his surrender was demanded. The United States will give no stipulation of which the treaty does not authorize the demand. As the stipulation or condition is demanded by Great Britain as a right, the right of the demand must be established. The President regrets that a condition, which in his judgment is without any justification under the treaty, should have been asked. He regards the question thus presented as of a grave and serious character, on the final solution of which must probably depend the continuance of the extradition article of the treaty of 1842. He cannot recognize the right of any power to change at its pleasure, and without the consent of the United States, the terms and conditions of an executory agreement in a treaty solemnly ratified between the United States and that power. He thinks that the twenty-seventh section of the British act of 1870 was specially intended to exempt the treaty with the United States from the application of any of the new conditions or provisions embodied in that act, and to leave that treaty to be construed, and the surrender of fugitives thereunder to be made as had been previously done. He hopes that on a farther consideration her Majesty's government will see in the section referred to the effect which he supposes it was designed to have; but he recognizes that it is for the British government to construct and enforce its own statutes; and should her Majesty's government finally conclude that the British Parliament has attached a new condition to the compliance by that government with its engagement with the United States under the tenth article of the treaty of 1842 relating to extradition, requiring from the United States stipulations not provided for or contemplated in the treaty, he will deeply regret the necessity which will thereby be imposed upon him, and does not see how he can avoid regarding the refusal by Great Britain to adhere to the provisions of the treaty as they have been reciprocally understood and construed from its date to the present time, or the exaction by that government of a condition heretofore unknown, as the infraction and termination of that portion of the treaty.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The boot and shoe manufacturing establishment of Miller & Randall, Lewiston having all orders filled, has shut down until next month. Nearly all the factories are quiet, and waiting for the moving of the waters.

There are now three cases of small pox and four cases of varioloid in the vicinity of upper Turner street, Auburn.

The Lewiston Journal says: A new method for secretion of the illegal fluid has been instituted on the Grand Trunk railway in Auburn. Just before arriving at the depot the barrels and kegs are dumped over the embankment into the receiver's charge. The receiver chanced to be an Auburn police officer, Tuesday, so this plot has failed the sharp calculation of the artful rum-vender.

The Evans Rifle Company of Mechanic Falls sent off its last installment of guns on the South American contract Thursday.

Cumberland.

The Bowdoin College Juniors are making extensive preparations for "Ivy Day," and a good time is expected. June 2d is the time set down for this festive occasion. Field day is expected to come off the following day, and the regatta on Wednesday, June 7th. A short time ago the sophomores and freshmen had a base ball match, which resulted in a victory for the sophomores by a score of 7 to 11. Wednesday the seniors and juniors had a class match, in which the seniors came off the winners by a score of 11 to 6. For class nines the game was considered very good.

Franklin

The Chronicle says that Franklin county Savings bank, at Farmington, has a surplus of about $10,000 above deposits.

At last Farmington is to have a school house. Several school meetings have been held to consider the subject of repairing or rebuilding the present season. It was voted to build and a committee has been chosen with authority to erect a two-story house, which shall contain at least 3000 square feet upon each floor.

It is believed that the small pox is pretty well closed out of Carthage and Weld at the present time, but not so in Dixfield, there being perhaps some dozen new cases breaking out lately about one-half of which occurred in the village. There has been but one death as yet from the new cases, and that was the wife of Mr. Benjamin Fish, who died May 1.

Kennebec.

The Gardiner Journal says that the Gardiner Savings Institution, if called upon to realize upon its investments, could sell its securities at a large advance over cost. The President remarked the other day to us: "We wish they would make a rush on us for about half a million, for if we were obliged to sell our bonds we could make a large profit on them."

Wednesday forenoon Charlie, a little son of Alfred Shaw, Esq., of Augusta, aged five years, fell on the ground while at play, and broke both bones of his left arm just above the wrist.

It is understood that Page, the escaped inmate from the Insane Hospital, is at Sidney, and was wandering around in the woods Wednesday evening. An officer has been sent for him.

A man named Gould, who escaped from the Insane Hospital last fall, was captured in Augusta by the police, a little past midnight of Wednesday. He was standing near the Kennebec bridge, and said he was on his way to the hospital.

Knox

The Free Press says that the police of Rockland have done a thrifty business the past week in the way of seizing liquors.

On Friday morning, April 28th, Mr. Stephen S. Bickmore was standing on a chair in his house, reaching for some matches, when by some means he slipped and came down across the back of the chair on which he was standing. The injury was not supposed to be a serious one at first; but in the evening quite violent hemorrhage took place, although it was controlled in a short time. He continued to have slight hemorrhage at times, until the 4th, when he began to sink rapidly, and it was found that the blood had passed inwardly, and he died.

Penobscot.

The Dexter Gazette says: We hear that Frank Dunham is having a hard time of it with his remaining eye. It is not by any means sure that he will not loose it. We hope, however, that we may be able to report a different result.

Piscataquis

The Observer says that quite a number of cows have sickened and died in Dover this spring.

Sagadahoc

The project to supply the city of Bath with water by the Holly system seems to meet with the favor of the citizens.

Somerset

The bank examiner, Mr. Bolster, finds on examination that the liabilities of the North Anson Savings Bank are $20,002 60 while the resources are $20,035 47. This leaves a balance of $32 87 in favor of the bank.

Waldo

A company from Belfast contemplate chartering a yacht and making a trip to the Centennial. A yacht can be chartered for $10 a day that will accommodate a party of twenty. It is proposed to visit New York, Washington and the Hudson, as well as Philadelphia.

BANGOR MARKET.

SATURDAY, May 13, 1876.

FLOUR. The changes during the past week leave the flour market just about even. The supply being fully up to the present demand, does not seem to admit of any general advance, as the prices seem to be full, as low as the western millers can afford to send it forward, so that it seems to be an increased foreign or shipping demand that is required to give an impulse to the trade and substitute larger figures.

CORN is a trifle heavy and worth to-day in the market from 72 to 75 cents per bushel. These figures include both weight and measure.

MEAL. Corn meal is worth from 72 to 75 cents per bushel.

FINE FEED. Fine middlings are worth from $1.50 to $1.60, coarse do, $1.40 to $1.55, and oats at $1.35 to $1.45 per hundred pounds.

OATS. Oats are worth from the stores, 52 to 55 cents for common to fair lots. The best seed oats are selling at better prices.

SALT—Coarse salt is sold at a range of price from 35 to 45 and 1.50 cents per bushel, and Bangor butter salt (20 pound boxes) $21 per hundred.

PLASTER is worth $1.25 per bbl.

LIME is worth 95 cents to $1.00 per cask.

CEMENT is selling at $1.75 per bbl.

BRICKS. Builders as yet are using very few bricks, and the trade is not active. Extras are worth from $12 to $15, and fair to the best building bricks are worth from $6.25 to $7.00 and $8.00 per M.

PORK is worth from $23 to $26, and $27 per bbl., according to quality.

LARD is worth from 14½ to 16 and 17 cents per pound, according to the quality and size of package.

FISH. Codfish are worth from $4.50 to $5.50 and $6.50, according to size and quality, and Pollock from $3.50 to $3.75 per hundred pounds.

SMOKED ALEWIVES. The St. John fish are selling to-day from $1.00 to $1.75 per hundred, per bbl.—barrels extra.

SEA POULTRY, or LOBSTERS, are plenty in the market at from 5 to 6 cents per pound.

SUGAR. Granulated sugar is worth from 10½ to 10¾ cents, and extra C do. from 9 to 9½ cents per pound.

CHEESE. The demand is quiet and the wholesale price from the stores takes the range of from 12 to 14 and 17 cents per pound, according to quality.

KEROSENE is worth this week from 24 to 26 cents per gallon, per bbl.—barrels extra.

SOAP. Stoddard & Beller's Bangor manufacture, American standard, 7½ cents per pound, and Champion Laundry, 4 pound bars, 5½ cents, soft do, $4 per bbl.—less usual discount to the trade.

GRASS SEEDS. Timothy or herds grass, $3.00 to $3.50 per bushel; Red Top, $1.25 per bushel, or $4.50 to $4.50 per sack, Fowl meadow, $2.00 to $2.50 per bushel; Western clover, 17 to 18 cents, Pea vine 18, 19 to 20 cents, and Alsike, 20 to 25 cents per pound.

Produce Market.

State Law Regarding Weights and Measures.

A hogshead of salt shall contain eight bushels. The standard weight of a bushel of beans shall be 64 pounds, of potatoes, wheat, beets and peas, 60 pounds, of corn, 56 pounds; of onions, 52 pounds; of carrots, turnips, rye, and Indian meal, 50 pounds, of barley and buckwheat, 48 pounds, of oats, 30 pounds, or even measure as by agreement.

The past week, as far as rain and water and mud go to make up the season, has been decidedly spring like, and the roads are reported in as hard a condition for travel as this soft state of things can place them, and it is only necessity that causes the market man's wagon to ripple the long lines of mud that mark out the highways.

LOOSE HAY of late has not been offered on the stand in any great quantity, and some extra brands have sold to-day at $15 to $16, but the major part is of a common or only a fair quality and sells from $10 to $12 and $14 per ton.

PRESSED HAY still bears about the same quotation, the western market showing but little change for the better. It is worth on the streets from $10 to $14, and some very extra lots sell at $15 per ton.

LOOSE STRAW is selling from $7 to $8 and $9 per ton.

PRESSED STRAW only finds a readier sale at about the same prices as loose.

OATS are selling in the streets, at the present time, at 50 cents per bushel.

RYE sells in the streets from 90 cents to $1 per bushel.

BARLEY is worth in the streets from 80 cents to $1.00 per bushel.

BEANS. Quotations remain as previously,—Store and mixed lots of yellow-eyed sell dull in the streets at $1.50 to $1.80 per bushel, nice handpicked lots selling a trifle better. Pea beans are comparatively scarce, and home-raised bring on the streets from $2.00 to $2.25 per bushel.

BUTTER has been brought in of late only in small quantities, which seem to be quite up to the demand, as trade in produce, as well as in merchandise generally, is extremely dull. The price in the streets for common to fair lots ranges from 20 to 25 cents, and extra lots are worth to-day from 28 to 33 cents, as there is but little of the latter quality in the market.

EGGS are worth in the streets to-day, from 15 to 16 cents—selling at the latter price only as there are very few coming into market.

POTATOES are worth from 55 to 65 cents per bushel.

TURNIPS. Rutabagas are worth from $1.00 to $1.25 per bbl.

ONIONS are worth $2.50 per barrel.

DRIED APPLES are scarce, and good ones would sell current at 11 cents per pound.

CIDER is worth from 20 to 25 cents per gallon, per bbl.—barrels extra.

HONEY, in small boxes, sells on the market from 20 to 25 cents, and in pails or kegs, from 15 to 20 cents per pound.

FRESH FISH. Salmon are worth whole from the market wagons from 35 to 40 cents, and mackerel are selling at 18 to 20 cents per pound. Shad are worth from 20 to 25 cents each. Halibut is selling from 8 to 10 cents per pound.

POULTRY. Turkeys are worth from 15 to 18 and 20 cents per pound. Chickens are selling from 15 to 18, and very extra lots are worth 20 cents per pound.

ROUND HOGS are a little dull and selling this week from 10 to 10½ cents per pound.

FRESH BEEF is plenty in the market and by the side, from 7 to 9 and 10 cents per pound would be the range of quotation for street, or market wagon prices.

VEALS are selling from 6 to 8 cents per pound.

MUTTONS are worth from 9 to 11 cents per lb.

SPRING LAMBS are in market and are selling at 25 cents per pound.

WOOL. The best qualities of unwashed and washed wool are worth in the streets from 22 to 30 cents per pound.

WOOL SKINS sell at a range of price from 50 cents to $1.00, each.

VEAL SKINS are worth from 10 to 12 cents per pound.

HIDES are selling at 5 cents per pound.

WOOD and COAL. Dry hard wood is sold, delivered from the cars at $5, on the street it sells from $5.00 to $7.00 per cord. Coal is sold mostly delivered at $8.00 to $8.50 per ton.

BARK. Hemlock Bark is selling at $7.00 per cord.

WHIG AND COURIER.

CAMPAIGN EDITION
For 1876.

To be Issued Three Months, beginning June 23d, and closing September 15th.

A NEWSPAPER FURNISHED AT LESS THAN COST

In compliance with requests by many leading Republicans and with a desire to promote the dissemination of Republican principles and to aid in assuring the most emphatic Republican triumph in the approaching Presidential election, the Proprietors have decided to furnish the WEEKLY edition of the WHIG AND COURIER for the three months during the Campaign at a price hardly covering the cost of the white paper. The first number of the Campaign WEEKLY COURIER, which is made up with the latest telegraphic and other news from our Daily, will be issued June 23d, immediately after the opening of the Centennial canvass by the National Convention at Cincinnati, June 14, and the Republican State Convention at Bangor, June 22, and the last number will be issued September 15th with a report of our State election.

The edition will comprise thirteen weekly numbers of the largest paper published in the State, each number accompanied by a two-page supplement, and will be furnished to new subscribers only, at the following low rates:

One Copy, sent Postage paid, 35cts.

EXTRA INDUCEMENTS TO CLUBS.

Three Copies to one address,	$1.00
Ten Copies to one address,	3.20
Twenty Copies to one address,	6.00
Fifty Copies to one address,	14.00
One Hundred Copies to one address,	25.00

We have determined to offer the Campaign COURIER at this low price solely with the object of bringing to the attention of those who do not now take any Republican paper, the current information upon which sound political judgement should be based and the merits and claims of the doctrines and principles which we advocate.

The coming Campaign will be one of the most important in our National History and promises to exceed any previous contest in interest and excitement. It is already manifest that misrepresentations, calumny and sensational reports will be freely employed to deceive the public, and it is essential that reliable and trustworthy information should be most widely circulated to counteract such misleading influences. Every citizen should keep fully posted concerning public affairs during the progress of the Campaign, and the WEEKLY COURIER, with its forty-eight columns principally devoted to current news, will prove a most desirable compendium of information to be put in the hands of every voter.

Send in Subscriptions at once.

The Republican Town Committees and all other citizens who are interested in the success of the Republican Cause are invited to render practical and valuable aid by taking prompt measures for placing the Campaign edition of the WHIG AND COURIER in the hands of every voter who is not now a subscriber. The price is merely nominal, and the efforts of two or three earnest Republicans in each town can readily insure a general circulation of the paper among the voting population.

The Offspring of Dyspepsia.
No class of invalids are more to be commiserated than the dyspeptic, since the malady from which they suffer is the parent of a more numerous offspring of tormenting symptoms than any other disease. On the other hand, they are to be congratulated that there is a potent, safe and agreeable botanic remedy for all the torture that they undergo. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters powerfully invigorates the cellular tissue of the stomach, thus promoting an adequate secretion and flow of the digestive juices, vitalizes the shrunken and debilitated lining of the stomach, directs the bile into its true channel, and stimulates the inactive bowels and dormant liver. These radical effects are accompanied with the restoration of appetite, flesh, and sound repose, and the removal of flatulence, heart-burn, nausea, palpitations of the heart, vertigo, high colored and scalding urine, water brash, headache, and many other harrassing symptoms of dyspepsia.

MR. BRISTOW'S SUPERSERVICEABLE CHAMPIONS.

Within the last week there has been a rapid accumulation of evidence that the inevitable reaction against the arrogant and extravagant pretensions of some of the injudicious persons and unscrupulous newspapers which have assumed to represent the Bristow movement, has already set in and that sensible people are beginning to suggest out loud that there can be too much of a good thing. The Republican press of Maine have had only kind words for Secretary Bristow but some of us have questioned the modesty of the claims set up in New England that he is not only abler, purer and stronger than our own distinguished candidate but that Mr. Bristow is the only one of all the candidates who would make a satisfactory President. Our feeling of surprise at the pretensions has not been lessened by the fact that they have been put forth with the most clamor and intolerance by persons and journals which have not hitherto been noted for friendliness to the Republican cause while they have adopted an extraordinary policy of aspersion towards Mr. Blaine and freely indulge in threats of what they will do in case they are not permitted to dictate both candidate and platform. This feeling of surprise is manifesting itself among the people in various sections and as they recognize the manner in which these superserviceable champions are exaggerating their own importance with that of their candidate, the intelligent voters are naturally inclined to grow indignant at the assumption that they are incapable of judging for themselves as to who is best qualified for the highest office in their gift.

The journalistic junto consisting of certain guerilla and assistant Democratic editors who conceived the project of starting the "Bristow movement" to weaken Blaine in New England, selected Massachusetts as their objective point and made their first grand demonstration on that State. For this purpose the Cincinnati conference was held at which the slanders against Mr. Blaine were collected and arranged and simultaneously with the inauguration of the "Bristow movement" Boynton, the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, set loose his plausible and malicious version of the Blaine scandals by telegraph, so that they appeared at the same time in his own paper, in the Boston Herald, the N. Y. Sun and the Baltimore Gazette. From that time the defamatory warfare upon the Maine candidate, unmistakably emanating from the same source has kept pace with the vociferous and fulsome laudation of Secretary Bristow as the only Republican fit to be President of the United States. The bigoted element in Massachusetts politics which has always resented the prominence of Maine men was early enlisted in the movement, and a coterie of Boston youths with more lungs than wisdom or experience were set at work chanting the praises of the Kentucky candidate and abusing every other. With all their rantings eagerly published in the Herald and kindred sheets, the combination has succeeded in making a great racket and in giving out the impression that it represented the State. Every political event there has been exaggerated or misrepresented in the interest of the "movement" and people outside were inclined to mistake the noise for public sentiment. The evidence is conclusive and indisputable that in the recent State Convention the earnest friends of Mr. Blaine were in a large but unorganized majority, and that the contrast in the enthusiasm displayed at the mention of the two candidates was especially marked. And yet none of the Boston papers save the Traveller had the courage to state this fact, while the "independent" organs indulged in the most unwarranted and ridiculous boasting of a great Bristow victory, and have since claimed the delegates as fast as they were elected. That sort of a canvass will last for a little while, but fictitious enthusiasm is self-exhausting, and already the sober common sense of Massachusetts Republicanism is making itself heard above the clamor of the Bristow Club. The remarkably keen letter which we publish on our first page to-day as copied from the Boston Advertiser of Friday, shows that all the people at the Hub have not lost their heads, and the fact that the Journal reproduced it with approval indicates that the "panic" is over.

More significant still, in the face of the wholesale claims of the Bristow organs, we find the Boston correspondent of one of them—the Springfield Republican—actually conceding in his letter "I hardly think that the Bristow movement, as such, is gaining in Massachusetts just now, nor do I set down more than half the delegates to Cincinnati as decided Bristow men." He claims positively but one Bristow man out of eight district delegates mentioned, conceding one to Blaine and setting the remaining six down as uncommitted, and then significantly remarks "There is still a good deal of inclination toward Blaine in the minds of many who would be quite content with Bristow, and the current of party feeling is almost wholly for Blaine." As the canvass is for a nomination by the Republican party the current of feeling among its members would seem to be the important thing in the case. As to the delegates from that State, we could hardly expect that writer to be over liberal toward our candidate, but there is the best of reason to believe that he will have at least two thirds of the Massachusetts votes at Cincinnati.

Among the other evidences of reaction we may note the promptness with which the Chicago Tribune withdrew from the anti-Blaine cabal as soon as its statements showed the gross manner in which its editor had been deceived. In one of its late issues it denies that it has attacked Mr. Blaine, and says that it shall support him if nominated "because of his intellectual ability and vigor, because of his sterling patriotism, because of his services to the country during his successive terms in Congress and because of the ripe experience in public affairs which he will bring to the office of President." The N. Y. Tribune refused to be drawn into the Cincinnati intrigue having gained an ample experience with the "newspaper quadrilateral" in 1872. It knows something of the methods employed and the results achieved by those papers and will be accepted as a competent critic of its former allies. It has been inclined to favor Mr. Bristow very strongly but in a recent editorial it shows signs of the general reaction against the arrogance of his champions, and while expressing a cordial esteem for the Secretary, reads the superserviceables a sharp lesson as follows:

But it must be admitted that while some of the ablest and purest men in the country welcome this indication of a popular reaction from the rule of the machine politicians and the dictation of Caucus and Ring and gladly recognize the yearning of the people for a more salutary political condition, there is still a feeling of hesitancy with regard to Secretary Bristow and his ability to meet all the requirements of the situation. It arises of course from his lack of experience in public affairs and the limited opportunities that have been afforded him for showing his capacity in more than a single direction. They will support him if he should be nominated with great heartiness and enthusiasm, but they are not so carried away by the popular furor that they accept him as the ideal statesman. They cannot help having in reserve a lingering doubt as to his ability to meet all the emergencies and answer all the demands of the higher and more responsible place as successfully as he has those of the single subordinate department in which he has achieved so excellent a name. Considering the possibilities of the Convention and the chance of getting some positively bad candidate they would willingly compromise on Mr. Bristow and dismiss their doubts. But they do honestly believe that the crisis calls for the very wisest and broadest statesmanship, and that a reasonable doubt may exist in the minds of thinking men whether upon the whole he has in him the stuff for such an Executive as the people are looking for.

It seems to us that the persons who take this view of matters may be quite as honest and sincere as any howling dervish in a newspaper office who has made up his mind that Mr. Bristow has all the virtues because he has exhibited one and who will not allow that any other candidate is less than a thief, or that any other can be supported except by persons who have been bought or bribed, or who have some other mean and selfish motive. It is Mr. Bristow's misfortune that one or two journals fresh from the clean picked bones of another candidate to whom their friendship was fatal have alighted upon and around him. They seem to have taken him in special charge. Whoever looks toward him has only a vision of the flapping of their fateful wings. To the honest searcher after information as to his ability and fitness, there comes no response except as these creatures answer "Caw!" The bleached skeleton of one statesman advertises on white thigh bone and pelvis the power of their affectionate regard, and Mr. Bristow may thank his stars if within the next two months they are not singing over his remains:

> We perched ourselves on his back bone
> And picked his eyes out one by one.

The investigation of the Union Pacific bond transaction begins to-day before a sub-committee of the House Judiciary Committee. In appointing the three members Proctor Knott selected two of the most bitter rebels, Hunton of Virginia, who was an officer in the rebel army and a prisoner in Fort Warren, and Ashe, of North Carolina, who served in the Confederate Congress throughout the rebellion. The third member is a Republican, Lawrence, of Ohio, who is strongly hostile to the Union Pacific. The Democrats are inspired solely by a desire to twist the matter in some way to damage Mr. Blaine, and will undoubtedly send out sensational reports. But their efforts will fail, for the facts will not injure the Maine candidate, whoever else may be troubled.

And now the ex-Confederate Doorkeeper Fitzhugh is to be given his "walking-ticket." Two or three indictments for crimes did not seriously impair his standing with the Democratic House, but that "bigger man than old Grant letter," with the allusion to the urgency with which members courted his favor for appointments, was too much for the Reformers, and Glover demands the Doorkeeper's head on a charger. This will make the ninth or tenth incumbent of the important positions conferred by the Democratic majority in the House, who has proved so unfit that even his party has felt unable to carry him. And we have only had five months of "political reform!" What a glorious national administration these Reformers would give us.

The Boston correspondent of THE BANGOR WHIG is a regular Turtar. He makes the fur fly from the independent "organs" at the "Hub," and shows up the tergiversations of the Herald in a complete manner.—Concord Monitor.

"THE SIMPLE VIRTUES" OF DEMOCRACY.

[From the New York Times.]

Ex-Governor Seymour, speaking for the Democratic Party at the Utica Convention, last month, said "We intend to win this victory because we mean to show that we are more fit to hold power." On another occasion, this eminent authority referred to "the simple virtues, principles of honesty, and wisdom, of our fathers, which the Democratic Party has ever upheld." These are fine words. Doubtless, John Kelley, sitting there with the responsibility of countless fraudulent primaries on his soul, highly approved such noble sentiments, and applauded all that he fairly comprehended. Right after this display of political morality comes a Senatorial election in Connecticut. The party of reform had already elected one Senator in that State. It had another chance to prove its fitness to be the exemplar of purity in politics. It chose W. H. Barnum. To be sure, the alternative was not a promising one. It was a choice between two evils. This party, which means to show that it is more fit to hold power than any other, shut itself up to the candidacy of Barnum and English for the United States Senate. After turning its dirty linen to the public view, it nominated Barnum, a rich and notoriously unscrupulous politician, who fancies a seat in the Senate as he might fancy a fast horse or a velocipede.

In the midst of the disgraceful squabble which preceded the Democratic caucus it came out that Barnum and English had disagreed as to the terms of sale. The friends of the former declare that he was willing to take care of his Congressional district in the late election and put up $10,000 for the State at large. Mr. English was to do as much or the trade would be considered "off." After waiting a day or two to give English a chance to make up his mind, Barnum left his seat in Congress, (that is, if he was ever in it), and went home to intrigue for the Senatorship. English complains that he was not given half a chance and that while he was calculating whether he could not get the Senatorship for less money Barnum went on with his pipe-laying just as if he had the whole field to himself. On the other hand, Barnum urges that if English had definitely agreed to become a candidate—which is another form of saying "put up the cash"—he, Barnum, would have considered the transaction closed and the Senatorship duly deliverable to English on the assembling of the Legislature. "While you stood there, shilly shallying," remarks this admirable representative of the simple virtues of our fathers, "I went in and took the lot at the market price."

This is the very latest outcome of the party that represents purification in politics, principles of honesty and various other things of which the excellent Horatio Seymour and the simple-minded Gov. Tilden say so many fine words. The party that has had the most to say about Jefferson in its search for candidates and scrupulous integrity in political management, has had two chances in Connecticut to prove its faith by its works. The first thing it did was to elect to the United States Senate Mr. Eaton, a rampling, roaring war horse of antiwar renown. This venerable person, honest enough as Democratic politicians go, but as destitute of intelligent ideas as a megatherium, was sent to the Senate because he had opposed the war and was still unconscious that the fight was over. Another chance for giving proof of a purpose to reform national politics came. Nobody was talked of but Barnum and English, and the issue between these two men was purely one of cash paid or not paid. Barnum claims that the auctioneer took his bid, and the Senatorship was knocked down to him. English with some show of justice complains that his bid was not regarded and that his money is just as good as the next man's. The result is one which the average citizen regards with indifference so long as the choice is between these two. Barnum has been in Congress seven or eight years. To him, a rich man, a seat in the House is a pretty plaything. He does not use it much. He never speaks there, and he hardly ever votes. Most of his time is spent in Connecticut, where he makes money enough to enable him to command such costly luxuries as chairs in the House and Senate.

It is stated that the cost of printing the testimony taken by the Navy Yard Committee will exceed $50,000 and that it will not be completed until after Congress adjourns, 180 pages are printed about the Kittery yard but it is of little value.

The Associated Press thus chronicles the outcome of Mr. Burleigh's great raid from which he promised the Boston papers "startling developments."

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL

The Boston Traveller says "It is not known what the Democratic Barnum paid for the Connecticut Senatorship, but it is understood that English, who was outbid, actually paid over twenty thousand dollars."

The Salem New Jersey Standard says "We have made it our business as we have met gentlemen from various sections of the State, to ascertain their views and the views of their neighbors and nineteen out of twenty have answered Blaine, and even the twentieth one has often hesitated before naming any one else. We have talked to men upon the street, business men, working men and mechanics and with strangers while travelling, men who are outside the whirlpool of politics, and their favorite name is Blaine. From north, east, west and south Jersey we hear the same expression of opinion: That James G. Blaine is the choice of New Jersey for President there can be no doubt."

The Des Moines (Iowa) Register says General Sherman has heaps of friends there, but that "the State will probably go for Blaine."

The two principal Southern journals which are opposed to Governor Tilden now are the Nashville American and the Richmond Enquirer. Both object to him on the ground that he cannot surely carry his own State.

The Newbern (N. C.) Times concedes Blaine eight out of the ten North Carolina delegates thus far elected to go to Cincinnati.

Secretary of War Taft has directed the portraits of Davis and Floyd to be hung with the other Secretaries of War in the United States Government building at Philadelphia. What will the Concord Monitor say to this?—Boston Globe.

This! That the hanging ought to have taken place years ago—of the originals—to a sour apple tree.—Monitor.

Says the Boston Commonwealth: "We should judge that the Bristow Club of this city, as well as their evening newspaper organ, were run by 'tyros' in politics, for more injudicious remarks and editorials than those lately emanating from these sources we scarce can remember. The best of causes would be ruined by such advocacy."

The Portland Argus actually says: "It is no disparagement to the other managers to give Mr. Hoar the credit for having presented the most effective plea."

The Georgia delegation to Cincinnati seems to be a little mixed. It will finally centre on Blaine or Morton.—[Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

Has "MARKED DOWN" every article in his stock. To such low prices have they come that customers cannot help purchasing when seeing. To "quote" those prices would seem so fabulous to the reader that even if advertised by "STONE" it would almost seem a question. And Marking Down has grown so tame, from such constant usage and abuse, that it sometimes fails to draw. But truth is oft times stranger than fiction, and this is one of the times. Be sure you come and see for yourselves, for seeing is believing, and you shall sure believe, as you shall come. Except you may be blind.

NEW YORK CITY

Resolutions Adopted by the Union League Club

NEW YORK, May 13. The Union League Club last night adopted resolutions announcing fealty to the Republican party, holding that the only way for the triumph of the party in the Presidential campaign will be the selection of candidates pledged to carry forward that reform in the public service to which the party has been pledged, but which through partisanship and personal favoritism has disgraced the public service and alarmed good citizens. That the demands of public duty are that the three following principles shall be faithfully adhered to by the Republican party, namely:

First. That all citizens shall be equal before the laws, and shall be protected by the laws.

Second. That specie payments and gold as the standard of value shall be speedily restored.

Third. That the civil service shall be reformed, and on these points at least both the resolutions and nominees of the approaching Republican National Convention should be such as to leave no ground for doubt or distrust.

Does not favor a Third Party.

Hon. A. H. Morrison of Mich. writes to Messrs Bryant, Schurz and others, that he cannot attend the political conference called by them in this city, as he does not favor a third party and will do nothing to endanger the success of the Republican party.

THE WINSLOW CASE.

The Prospect of the Surrender of the Forger Improving

BOSTON, May 13. A London special says it appeared last night that the chances for the surrender of Winslow to the United States officials under the extradition treaty are improving. It is impossible to ascertain precisely the terms of the reply sent by the British Government last Saturday to Secretary Fish's able note on the subject, but there is little doubt that it concedes the justice of the Secretary's argument and that England will oppose the demand of Winslow and his counsel for his discharge.

Recommitted for Ten Days

The ten days for which Winslow was recommitted having expired, the application for his release was renewed this morning and being again opposed by the Government was recommitted for ten days longer. Attorney-General Walker said if Secretary Fish's answer to Lord Derby's note had not then been received, the Government would not raise any further objections to his release.

The attendance Saturday—Work on Buildings

PHILADELPHIA, May 13. The attendance at the Exposition to-day numbered between 40,000 and 50,000. Several sections are closed in order to enable workmen to put up railings in front of the exhibits.

A Bill in Equity Against the Central Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13. Anthony Collett, a stockholder of the Central Pacific Railroad Co., has filed a bill in equity against that company and Stanford, Huntington, Crocker & Co. to enjoin them from using funds of the Central Pacific to pay the interest on the $1,600,000 bonds of the California Pacific Co. issued by the last named company to Stanford and others and endorsed by the Central Pacific and to obtain a decree that the endorsement of the Central Pacific is without authority, and abide the determination of the motion. This is important not only as affecting the bonds in question, but its influence upon the negotiations now pending for the settlement of the bonds of the California company, the interest on which has been defaulted, Stanford & Co., having proposed to retire them by substituting new bonds of the same company for a less amount and endorsed by the Central Pacific.

THE CHICAGO PENSION AGENCY.

Gen. Baker contradicts Miss Sweet's testimony in several important particulars

ST PAUL, Minn., May 13. Gen James A. Baker, formerly Commissioner of Pensions, in an interview yesterday contradicts Miss Ada Sweet's testimony in several important particulars. He denies that he was privy to any arrangement between Miss Sweet and Blakely until months after she assumed the office, when an apparent deficit of $1,000 in her accounts was discovered and she was duly notified of the fact, and she wrote a letter stating the facts in the case. About the same time Blakely by a personal letter apprised Gen'l Baker of the situation. He then concluded to go to Chicago and look after the matter. He found that Miss Sweet had voluntarily got herself into the situation and notified her promptly that she must cease paying money to any one on this account. This she promised and afterwards made the deficit good. General Baker declares that he never went to Blakely's office for any purpose whatever and never talked with Miss Sweet in Blakely's presence touching this matter. He regarded Miss Sweet as an excellent woman, and did all for her that could be done within the limit of his official duty, and also declares that he knows nothing affecting the integrity of Blakely's administration of the Pension agency.

Other Testimony.

WASHINGTON, May 13. Geo. W. Campbell, brother of Marshall Campbell, testified to-day to holding an office in Chicago in the Pension Agency, but it was a sinecure; B. M. Johnson testified that he held office there, but did no work except to draw his salary. Joseph F. Lackey, formerly Deputy Commissioner of Pensions, testified that he visited the Chicago Pension office and found a deficit of $3000 as testified to by Miss Sweet. He received a despatch from General Baker, Commissioner of Pensions, telling him to let the Chicago office alone, that he (Baker) would attend to the settlement of that matter.

THE MURDERED CONSULS

Fears of More Hostility

LONDON, May 10. A special despatch from Athens to the Times says a vessel which has arrived from Salonica brings news that the American consul was not in Salonica at the time of the murders. The Christians took his carriage, which chanced to be at the railway station, and the Greek girl to the consulate. The Provincial Consul and mob met in the mosque. The Governor was present when the consuls were murdered. He merely protested, and treated the matter lightly. The Turks defiled the corpses and spit upon them. The body of the French Consul had 34 wounds.

Exulting Over the Murder of the Consuls

GREAT BRITAIN.

A Terrible Mutiny.

LONDON, May 13. The bark Caswell arrived at Queenstown to-day in tow of the gunboat Goshawk. The mutineers had killed Capt Best, the first and second mates and steward. One seaman killed two Greek mutineers, another Greek was badly cut and taken prisoner and Capt Best was shockingly mutilated. All four of the officers were tied together and thrown overboard by the mutineers. The captain and second mate were then not quite dead.

The Story Told by the Seaman in Charge of the Vessel

James Carrick, the seaman in charge of the bark Caswell, reports as follows: On leaving Antofagasta the crew consisted of the captain, two mates, steward, three Greeks, two Italians and two English seamen, a carpenter and two boys. On the 4th of January, the Greek and Italian sailors mutinied and murdered the officers. Knowing something of navigation I took charge. The foreigners wished to take the vessel to Greece. About a month afterwards when off Brazil, the boys overheard a plot between the Greeks and Italians to murder the Englishmen aboard. The carpenter and myself succeeded in overpowering one of the Greeks, whom we put in irons. We were then compelled in self-defence to kill the other Greeks, one of whom was the ringleader of the party. The two Italians then left the vessel in a boat, taking a letter from me to deliver when they got ashore. The vessel was brought here by the remainder of the crew.

High School Entertainment

A large number of parents and friends were present at an entertainment given by the second class in the High School last Saturday morning.

The opening exercise was singing by the school of "Gipsy Chorus." They certainly did not do their best, as was clearly evinced by the way in which the last selection was sung. Miss Lizzie Burr then recited the piece entitled "Liberty and Independence," in a very finished and praiseworthy manner. Mr Moody, who has charge of the musical department, then sung a very fine bass solo. The next number on the programme was a declamation, "The Traitor's Death," by W. B. Ayer, and his execution and gestures were very creditable. Miss May Brett sung a pretty solo. Her voice was not very strong, but it is sweet and very pleasant to listen to. The reading of "The Centennial Bell," a paper published by the second class, was the next exercise. The different articles were read by Misses Sellers and Pease. The reading of the contents of this little sheet were listened to with much pleasure; and the jokes and witticisms brought out many a hearty laugh. The poem, entitled "Two Sessions," was read with a great deal of fervor, and its appeal will certainly have great weight with the committee.

If there were any present who had not heard of the Centennial, they were well acquainted with the exhibition and arrangements, for the Bell seemed to have a weakness for that subject. A piano solo by Mrs. J. B. Ayer was very much enjoyed. E. L. Dillingham declaimed "The Bell" in a clear and very satisfactory manner. The Amateur Quartette, consisting of Messrs. Morison, Morrill, Stickney, and Forrest, sung a very pretty song, entitled "Lily of the Valley," and their success was so great that they were called out a second time and sung "Roll, Jordan, Roll." The quartette are becoming more proficient and are steadily increasing in popularity. H. R. Chaplin's delivery of "The supposed speech of James Otis" was very spirited. These interesting exercises closed with the singing of "America" by the school and audience. Mellie Brett acquitted herself very finely as accompanist.

The Freshet.

The water in the river has been gradually rising for the past few days, and yesterday it flowed over the top of the dam. A large number of people drove to the Rose place yesterday to witness the sight.

Our Orono correspondent sends us the following:

At one o'clock P. M., Saturday the water had reached the highest point in the Penobscot and had caused less damage than was at one time feared, the principal injury being the carrying away of about eighty feet of a pier dam in the Stillwater between the Perkins block and the log sluice belonging to Mr. Buffum's mill, and the booms connected therewith. This will cause some delay in sawing at this mill ... logs cannot now be held. It will cost about five hundred dollars to make the necessary repairs. The owners will be obliged to let other mills ... from too great ... in moving logs at present pitch of water.

At Upper Stillwater the water partially undermined the covered bridge formerly the toll bridge, but further injury was stayed by loading it with rocks, for which purpose more than a dozen teams were kept employed all day Saturday.

Our Milo correspondent writes: The water here is very high. Sebec River is the highest that it has been for a number of years. ... eight rafts and a bulk head were carried away and fears were had for the safety of the bridge and several buildings. The water cut a channel through the road at the end of the bridge but did no other damage. All is considered safe now (Saturday P. M.)

Our Sebec correspondent writes that the water at that place is higher than it has been for seven years and is still rising. One hundred tons of rocks have been put on to the bridge to insure its safety.

HOW TO ADVERTISE SUCCESSFULLY.—Let the article you advertise be sufficient ... valuable, of public utility and possess ... merit, then never recommend it beyond its merit. A good article will sustain a reputation and merit the implicit confidence.

State facts only, or what you conscientiously believe to be true. Truth, like diamonds, are always valuable and difficult to imitate.

Give your story concisely and to the point. Advertisements at best are prosy, and short ones least expensive.

However anxious to make money, let its acquirement be secondary to the principle of doing good. The gratification of doing good is a great reward.

Never seek to build a reputation by attempting the ruin of another. Your foundation is too frail for a substantial structure and you unwittingly assist your adversary.

The above rules are those of the Inventor of Fellows Syrup of Hypophosphites and their observance by an advertiser should insure a demand in the market for his merchandise, while business prudence only is necessary to complete the programme for success. d&w may12

TO ALL, particularly invalids, spring is a trying season. Indications of sickness should at once be attended to. Fatal diseases may be caused by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and the system to remain in a disordered condition, until the disorder has time to develop itself. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, is an old and truthful saying. Therefore, we advise all who are troubled with the complaints now very prevalent—headache, indigestion, disordered liver, want of appetite, nausea, or feverish skin, to take, without delay, Schenck's Mandrake Pills. We know of no remedy so harmless and decisive in its action. It at once strikes at the root of the disease and produces a healthy tone to the system. People never need suffer from any disease arising from a disordered condition of the liver if they would take this excellent medicine when they feel the first indications of the malady. Families leaving home for the summer months should take three or four boxes of these pills with them. They have an almost instantaneous effect. They will relieve the patient of headache in one or two hours, and will rapidly cleanse the liver of surrounding bile, and will effectually prevent a bilious attack. They are sold by all druggists. eodlm may1

West Fairlee, Vt., Jan. 11, 1871.

Dear sir:—For seven or eight years past I have been in poor health, and for the past year or more very feeble. My health continued to decline, and my flesh and strength wasted away, until I was unable to work or even go up stairs without great exhaustion. I suffered from frequent and distressing attacks of palpitation of the heart, my food distressed me, causing acidity and pain in the stomach, and I suffered from extreme nervousness, constipation and debility of the system generally, my blood being thin and poor and sluggish in circulation, and I was for years suffering all the tortures of a confirmed dyspeptic. About six months since I concluded I would try a bottle of PERUVIAN SYRUP and received so much benefit from it that I purchased five bottles more and have continued the use of the Syrup until quite recently. It has restored my health to such an extent that I feel myself as good as new. My digestion is good and my weight has increased in the past four months from one hundred and twenty to one hundred and thirty-eight pounds, my strength has returned, and my general health is thus wonderfully improved, and I can truly say I owe it all to the use of your PERUVIAN SYRUP. I earnestly recommend all sufferers from dyspepsia and debility to give it a trial, hoping it will do them as much good as it has me. Yours very truly,

MRS. S. B. BEMIS.

THE BALLAD OF THE BELL-TOWER.

BY MARGARET J. PRESTON.

"Five years ago I vowed to Heaven upon my fal[illegible] blade;
To build the tower, and to this hour my vow hath [illegible] been paid.

"When from the eagle's nest I snatched my falcon-[illegible] dove,
And in my breast shaped her a nest, safe and warm lined with love,

"Of all the bells in Christendom, if rung with fervent might,
That happy day, in jangling joy had told my joy aright.

"As up the aisle my bride I led in that triumphant hour,
I ached to hear some wedding cheer clash from the minster tower.

"Nor chime nor tower the minster had, so in my soul I sware,
Come loss, come let, that I would get church bells a-ringing there.

"Before a twelve-month—but we know what foray's came I the land,
How seasons went, and wealth was spent, and all were weak of hand!

"And then the yearly harvest failed ('twas when my boy was born),
But could I ... old while vassals filled my ears with cries for corn?

"Thereafter harped the heaviest woe, and none could help or save,
Nor was there bell to toll a knell at ... my Bertha's grave!

"All that I held my vow ... [illegible]
Maybe these woes—God knows! God knows!—had never crushed me.

"Ev'n now ... beg that I give o'er ... the scant supply
Of water fills in lowland vales, and mountain springs are dry.

"Here be the quarried stones ... skilled craftsmen come at call,
But with no ... of water store ... the wall!"

"Nay, listen—Last year's vintage ... in cellars, tun on tun, Wait we ... for yours and mine, dare the work go under?"

"Quick! bring them forth ... mighty butts, let none elsewhere be sold,
And I will pay this very day their utmost worth in gold."

"That so the mortar that cements each stone with ... [illegible]
For her dear sake whom God did take, may all be mixed with wine."

. . . .

'Twas thus the Baron built his tower, and as the story tells,
A fragrance rare bewitched the air whene'er they rang the bells.

A merrier ... [illegible] ... days were long,
They seemed to chime at vintage time a catch of vintage song.

And when the vats were foamed with must ... [illegible]
The minster tower, at vesper hour, above ... [illegible]

... [illegible]

At every draught of air he quaffed would taste of vineyard bloom.

FASHIONS IN WOMEN'S DRESS.

SPRING FASHIONS FOR DRESSES.

It is impossible to call any particular style the one most prevailing, because every day brings forth some new fancy, and those who hurriedly follow the earliest fashions are always sure to find something later which is infinitely more attractive. The first efforts are generally cast aside and experiments are made, so that what promises in the beginning to be a favorite fashion becomes common or is voted useless, and it is as well to wait until experience teaches what is best. The new spring dresses are waiting for pleasant days, and even for receptions and visits winter costumes have been found the most comfortable. The new wraps, which are all in semi-transparent materials, are not suited to the cool changes. These wraps, whether dolmans, cuirasse jackets, Lamballe and Marie Antoinette scarfs and fichus, are composed mainly of embroidery in applique on coarse net; cashmere, Sicilienne and silk are mixed with these embroideries, some of which are very handsome. Sicilienne is just at present the most fashionable material in Paris for outside garments.

Dresses are worn very long, the close fitting polonaise and princesse-shaped dresses are still favorites. The empress, also close fitting, is used for grenadines and lighter materials. It resembles the princesse, but in the back it develops into a voluminous garment below the simulated cuirasse, and is looped and puffed. With these the Marie Antoinette fichu of the same material is worn in the street. Fringes and gimps are laid on in eccentric and picturesque designs, sometimes the two sides are entirely dissimilar in trimming. Polonaises have rows of small buttons down the front, set on closely, and are buttoned at discretion. Cashmere retains its place among materials as a favorite for all dresses. It is combined with other materials of the same color to form visiting, street and home dresses. The real camel's hair and cashmere are soft and pliant, and the colors are always in soft shades. A reception dress of light colored cashmere has a deep trained skirt, trimmed with a wide cashmere flounce, from beneath which a full ruching of crepe, of the same shade, emerges. Above the cashmere flounce two flounces of silk, one plaited, the other plain and gathered, are set. The overdress is formed of two scarfs of cashmere edged with cream lace or cream lace. A cuirasse of cashmere has sleeves of silk. Long princesse tunics sometimes form the trains to dresses, being slightly looped in front to show the edge of the skirt beneath. It will be seen from this that the tight-fitting dresses and closely draped skirts are not to be given over this season. And these allow of very little tournure, in the draping provision is made for giving to the figure all that is necessary. To obtain the most graceful results the underskirts are made exactly the same cut as the dress, and are so arranged beneath the train as to follow all its movements. By this the ungraceful and undignified positions which ladies have had to assume when sitting down, or moving at all rapidly, have been entirely done away with.

Satin has become very fashionable. It is worn as underdress for grenadines, laces or thin materials, and is also used for costume and reception dresses. But it should be of the very richest description, and therefore it is out of the reach of many persons.

A visiting dress of black satin has pointed basques in front, the back is empress style fitting tightly, like the princesse, to the hips, below, the satin is gathered from top to bottom so as to form puffs which diminish in width at the top; the skirt is made very long, making the puffs very full; the front of the dress is in folds which are joined to the puffs at the side beneath a long satin band widening at the bottom. The sleeves are tight, with puffs forming cuffs above a ruffle. The waist is opened in a heart shape and filled in with lace.

Puffs are very pretty in grenadine. A black silk, with grenadine intermixed in the flounces, has a puffed overdress. The grenadine is cut into long strips, widening at one end and puffed, some with edges, some without. Those with edges are laid to overlap the others, and the puffs are set into the silk. Around the tunic, thus formed, a double puff is set on, headed with a narrow gaufered ruffle and finished with a wide one. The cuirasse waist is of silk. Black velvet will be worn under thin materials this year as much as it was last season. English velveteen, which ought to be of the best quality, makes a good substitute for expensive velvet. The nap in this should always be made to run up. Black velvet underdresses have tight cuirasse waists, and trains set on below the waist in the back, with full gathers.

A handsome velvet dress, with train, has two scarfs of grenadine, with satin cross-bars; these scarfs, trimmed with chantilly, drape the front of the dress, and then fall in rich folds over the back. The velvet waist is cut square and has no sleeves; grenadine sleeves fitting close to the arm and having a fall of lace are substituted. With this dress a mantle of lace is worn for visiting or reception occasions.

Blue, gray and plum color are the favorite shades this season. For very young girls pink is a becoming color; pale pink, or a deeper shade, with muslin over it to soften the tint. A dress for a watering-place, of pink silk, has a silk flounce, gathered, above which two plaited muslin flounces, trimmed with valenciennes, are set. The overdress is long and shawl-shaped at one side; it can be trimmed with diagonal stripes of insertion; the edge has a fine plaiting. The cuirasse, of silk, is covered with one thickness of muslin, and the edges finished with a cording. The sleeves are of silk, with cuffs of plaited muslin, and bows of silk. Sashes of wide silk loop the dress. This style of dress is useful in renovating a silk which has lost its freshness.

Another pretty watering-place dress is of cream colored crepe de chine, embroidered in floss. The princesse tunic has a shell-trimming of lace, interspersed with knots of cream-colored and cherry ribbon. This mixture of shades is very good. This dress is to be worn over silk or velvet.

SEASIDE AND MOUNTAIN DRESSES.

Among the many new ideas for seaside dresses the "Breton" is perhaps the most taking. It is a picturesque and fresh one at any rate. The material used is heavy, the color and material both chosen to resist change by exposure to sun and rain. Gray cloth makes perhaps the prettiest costume with black trimmings; and carmelite gray is certainly the most becoming shade a blonde can wear. The underskirt is plain, set on with flat plaits. The overdress, plain also, is shorter, and is caught up at one side by a large bow of black silk with a frayed ends. The waist is composed of what is known as the Robespierre vest; it comes down over the hips, has a small collar and tight sleeves, and is buttoned its whole length with one row of buttons. Two large square pockets are set on the front. Over this is worn a sleeveless jacket, long and of the same material, very much cut away in front to show the vest. A wide sash of black silk, with ends frayed into fringe, is worn on the hips under the jacket, and is tied loosely at the back, where it also catches up and holds the overskirt.

"Bed ticking," the favorite English material for seaside dress, is made up for beach dresses. It comes in a better grade than ordinary "ticking" for this purpose. The blue stripe or check is the most used, and blue linen furnishes trimming. The very plainest methods of making it up are the best; plain skirts and overdress, plaited waists or plain jackets.

Flannel, plain and twilled, in white blue or gray, also makes excellent seaside or mountain dresses.

CHILDREN'S DRESSES.

The Russian blouse in pique for little children is a cool and pretty dress. It is perfectly straight, allowing perfect freedom to the child. The front, which hangs loose from the neck, has two rows of galloon and two rows of buttons straight down the front. The garment is edged round the bottom with a narrow band of embroidery. Linen dresses are made in the same way, having all the seams corded with white. These dresses look like loose princesse dresses.

Paletot-shaped sacques for little boys are made of white reps, with insertings let in of English embroidery and edged with the worked edgings to match.

A jacket for an older boy, in soft woolen, is paletot-shaped, square pockets at the side, the sides longer than the back, are shaped like square tabs, and are held together at the back by a large flat bow of ribbon without ends. The jacket is open in front, fasted with one button at the throat; sailor collar. The dress worn under this is generally of the same material with flat plaits, and has a Louis XV. vest.

Children, both boys and girls, wear very high boots laced in front half way up the leg.

VULCANIZED RUBBER COATED PIPE!

This pipe has two layers of pure rubber, both upon the outside and inside, each layer being vulcanized on. This coating is unaffected either by acids or salts, and does not rust, crack or peel, thus making it the most durable and pure pipe in use for conducting water.

It has been used for years in many cities where it has been thoroughly tested, and has received the highest testimonials for its superiority over pipes coated or enamelled with other substances.

After a careful examination of its merits, it has been adopted by the

BANGOR WATER BOARD,

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Comm'r of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. SILVER EYE.

This valuable stallion will make the season at the BANGOR HOUSE STABLES.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE.

He is a jet black color, eight years this Spring, stands 15½ hands high, weighs 1050 lbs., has a perfect trotting action, and trotted as a four year old colt in 2:41 having been handled, but very little for speed.

SILVER EYE

Was sired by Gilbreth Knox, he by Gen. Knox. His dam was by old Eaton, he by the Avery Horse, he by Bucephalus, he by Messenger descent. Dam of Eaton Horse, Pelton Mare, she by Winthrop Messenger, he by imported Messenger.

It will be seen by the pedigree of old Eaton, that the blood runs very direct and close back to imported Messenger.

The father of Silver Eye was sold four years ago for $15,000.

TERMS—For peculiar reasons the price will be $15 (reduced from $40) for the season, to be paid first time of service.

This a rare opportunity for those who desire to raise first class trotting stock.
